This week on "Fort Hood On Track," reporter Angie Malone has the story about the Sesame Street/USO Experience, which has traveled about 45,000 miles to more than 76 bases in nine countries and performed for more than 176 audiences.

Sesame Street characters took the stage at Abrams Physical Fitness Center not only to entertain military families, but also to teach an important lesson about coping with deployments and homecomings.

The military often has been a birthplace for high-tech innovations that eventually filter into everyday life. On Track reporter Ron Morse takes us to the Fort Hood Technology Expo where vendors offered their latest gadgets to Soldiers for use at work or at home.

On Track reporter Julia Conner went to Camp Care A Lot, a free day camp for children enrolled in the Exceptional Family Member Program, to learn that the rumors about having fun were true.

"Fort Hood On Track" also goes to the 2010 Range Riders Pistol Challenge to see who is the fastest gun on Fort Hood.

The 89th Military Police Brigade bid farewell to Col. John Huey and got a new commander. On Track reporter Darryl Leonard was there to see the change of command and meet Col. Patrick Williams.

More original Fort Hood TV programming includes "Community Update," a two-minute daily report on events, resources and programs available to the Fort Hood community and "Family Focus," a 15-minute program for Army families at Fort Hood.

In this edition of "Family Focus," there is a class that takes the pain out of parenthood and the Manager of the Army Substance Abuse Program talks about how changes to the program will improve services for Soldiers and their families.

Stay tuned to Fort Hood TV Channel 10 for more original programming and stories about the Great Place and its community.
