

Force protection, anti-ID theft measures, Soldiers Show now showing

BY JANNA LEWIS
III Corps Public Affairs

This week, "Fort Hood On Track" looks at the safety of the Soldiers, civilians and family members who live, work and play at Fort Hood. Anti-terrorism awareness is an issue that affects the entire Army community and reporter Charlie Guzman met with Fort Hood's force protection supervisor to learn how one person can make all the difference in keeping the installation safe.

Texas has the third highest rate per capita of identity thefts in the nation and Texans reported more than 98 thousand cases of ID theft and fraud, according to the Federal Trade Commission. On Track reporter Darryl Leonard learns how to safeguard credit cards and Social Security numbers to prevent the spread of these crimes.

"Fort Hood On Track" also went to the 2010 Financial Forum sponsored by the Army Community Service Financial Branch to learn how to improve credit scores and plan for retirement.

Social media sites like Facebook and Twitter have become popular and have revolutionized the way that Americans communicate with one another. The 2010 U.S. Army Soldier Show used social media as its theme. On Track reporter Angie Malone also met two cast members who are stationed at Fort Hood.

And Christmas comes to the Great Place in July. On Track reporter Charlie Guzman visits with Santa's Workshop, a non-profit group that provides toys for military children during the holiday season.

More original Fort Hood TV programming includes "Community Update," a two-minute daily report on events, resources and programs available to the Fort Hood community and "Family Focus," a fifteen-minute program for Army families at Fort Hood.

Fort Hood TV Channel 10 has all the original programming and stories about the Great Place and its community, plus programs from the Pentagon Channel that matter to military lives.
